A Word from Alba — Jubilate!

This past fall, we made some drastic changes in our Jubilate rehearsal schedule, moving to a once-a-week rehearsal on Sunday nights, including a meal that we share with our Youth as they begin their Real Life meetings. This has proven to be a great success, and I thank all who help prepare and serve those meals. Now that a new semester has begun, we need volunteers to help with this meal. You will need to plan for about 30 people. As our Youth Group and Jubilate grow, this number may need to be adjusted.

We do have one member who is gluten intolerant, so I try to make sure that we have something that will meet their dietary restrictions. Phil Woodson created an online sign-up form, and you can link to it by going to <http://www.signupgenius.com/go/10C0C45AAAA22AAFF2Sunday>. I hope you will consider helping.

How important is a meal? This past fall, the following comment from one of the Jubilate choir members was overheard around the supper table at one of these meals, "I am so busy that I considered not coming to rehearsal tonight. But then, I remembered that this is usually the best meal I have all week." It is important, and it says a lot about UBC, that we are concerned with the students who come here and participate in the ministries we offer.

After the Jubilate 40th reunion this past spring, a Director's Task Force (DTF) was formed. All the directors of Jubilate, past and present, met with members of the Jubilate Alumni Association (JAA) for two days to discuss the current group's status, and how the Jubilate alumni can work to strengthen and support the ministry of Jubilate. We had our second meeting this past weekend, and a mission statement and vision statement began to take shape — statements that confirm the work and direction of Jubilate for the past 40 years and for many years to come. In the coming weeks we will be sharing some of this information with you, the current group and Jubilate alumni all over the world. We currently have over 600 addresses of former members, and for the DTF and JAA. For all Jubilate members past and present, we say "Thank You" to University Baptist Church for your support of this extremely important and worthwhile ministry to college students. With your prayers, Jubilate will be a ministry that reaches people with the message of God's Love for many, many years to come!
