A Word from Michael

There has been some confusion about this Wednesday night’s program, and I’m writing to clarify the program and apologize for the confusion!

The Word announced that this week, we’ll prepare shoeboxes for Operation Christmas Child and hygiene kits for FCCW. But on Sunday, we announced that our “neighbor,” Mildred Best, will be speaking. Which will happen? BOTH! We’ll hear from Rev. Best starting at 5:30 pm (during dinner), and we’ll assemble the boxes/kits immediately following.

Again, I’m sorry for the poor planning and communication. Back in August, I penciled in “Shoeboxes?” on the calendar, but later, Rev. Best told me she was available the same week. Both programs appeared on different versions of the church calendar, and it was only this week that we sorted it out.

I’m thankful for the flexibility and grace of Rev. Best and our congregation. Let’s enjoy the double-header!

~Blessings, Michael

Welcome, Mildred Best (& Operation Christmas Child)

Mildred Best will be our speaker on Wednesday, November 19, at 5:30 pm in Fellowship Hall. She is the Director of the Chaplaincy Department at U.Va. Medical Center.

Best, who came to U.Va. 14 years ago from Duke University Medical Center, was named director in September 2012. She oversees a unit that includes a team of professional chaplains and roughly a dozen divinity school students who are undertaking their clinical chaplaincy education.

Mildred Best, a mother of five, is a graduate of Coppin State University and Bryn Mawr College. She earned her master’s of divinity degree from Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary in Wake Forest, N.C.

“This is a real opportunity for me to help educate others so they can provide competent spiritual care to people and families and enhance the experience at U.Va.,” Best says. “It’s important for people to know that they will be supported as patients here, not just physically, but that the institution cares about the whole person.”
