Mark Snipes to Speak Wednesday, September 9

Our guest speaker on Wednesday, September 9, at 6:15 pm will be Mark Snipes, talking about Cooperative Baptist Fellowship of Virginia’s (CBFVA) partnership with our ‘neighbours’ to the north, the Canadian Baptists.

Mark Snipes is the Missions Coordinator for the CBFVA. In this position, Mark collaborates with CBF field personnel around the world to help tell their stories and to connect churches with their work. Mark also coordinates youth events like Mission Madness and Fall Retreat and preaches and teaches around the state sharing the good work of CBF. Mark lives in Richmond with his wife Katye and sons Parker and Jackson.

As part of the ‘neighbours’ emphasis, CBFVA is asking churches to fill orange ‘neighbours’ bags with grocery items to bring to the CBFVA ‘Neighbour’ General Assembly on Friday, September 18, at Mechanicsville Baptist in Richmond. These bags will be given to LUCHA Ministries to be distributed among our Hispanic immigrant neighbours here in Virginia.

This Wednesday night, there will be bags to fill after Mark’s presentation.

Thanks for being a good ‘neighbour’!

The Word

A Word From Michael

As we celebrated Labor Day yesterday, I thought about our society’s relationship with work and rest. We are a culture that values productive and fruitful work, and some even subscribe to the notion of “I’ll sleep when I’m dead.” At the very least, many of us, in our busy and hectic lives, find ourselves in need of a time to rest from our work.

In the beginning of the book of Genesis, there’s an account of how God created the heavens and the earth. As each “day” of creation progressed, a refrain is repeated for each one: “and there was evening and there was morning.” For the Hebrews, the day begins not in the morning, but in the evening, when activity ceased and people spent time with family, eating meals and sharing stories before going to sleep. In God’s creation, a rhythm of rest comes before fruitful work. In fact, after God created the first human beings and told them to be “fruitful and multiply,” humanity’s first “full day” was a day of rest in the presence of God.

Is it possible that God designed human beings to work from our rest, and not vice-versa? Jesus had the same perspective when, in John 15, he used the image of the vine and the branches to illustrate the need to abide in him before bearing fruit. Unfruitful branches are pruned so that more nutrients can be channeled to other branches. Even fruitful branches are pruned periodically so that they can be even more fruitful.

As you reflect on your life and the life of UBC, ask yourself these questions: “Are we working from rest, abiding first in Christ before becoming fruitful? How might we intentionally enter into a season of rest? What needs to be pruned and cut back so that we can be even more fruitful?”

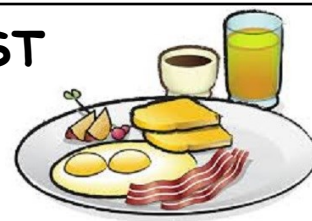

These are questions to ponder coming out of this Labor Day weekend.

~Blessings, Michael

Alma Hunt Offering for Virginia Missions

During September we are supporting the Alma Hunt Offering for Virginia Missions and the Chaplain Service Prison Ministry of Virginia, Inc. (specifically, Fluvanna Correctional Center for Women).

The Chaplain Service has changed the lives of thousands of inmates throughout Virginia by distributing Bibles, conducting worship services, providing counseling and coordinating volunteer programs.

The Alma Hunt Offering supports ministries in and missionaries from Virginia.

Our 2015 goal is $4,000, to be divided evenly between these two mission efforts. Specially marked envelopes can be found in the pew racks, the Church Office, and the lobbies.
