UNIVERSITY BAPTIST CHURCH

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA

“Other seeds fell on good soil and brought forth grain, some a hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty. He who has ears, let him hear.”

— Matthew 13:8-9

There are times when I know not to sit down in my recliner at home. If I sit down, I'm staying down for the count, because I'm tired and that recliner just feels so very good. Resolve disappears, rationalizing comes alive (such as, it's not exactly life-and-death, those errands and other to-do's can wait, now where's the TV remote?). If you don't face that struggle from time to time, either you've got great gumption, or else you need to get yourself a recliner that's harder to get out of once you're in it.

Which is my way of leading into this less-than-comfy topic of financial stewardship. Let's just say that UBC's finances are in a definite state of 'reclining' . . . down for the count. . . not exactly life-and-death. . . maybe can wait awhile longer. . . and so forth, until. Until when?

Will our church's financial support from its members and active participants stay in 'recline' until, in fact, crisis-status is attained? As you know so well, income coming in less than expenditures going out will inevitably see a financial crisis come upon us. That's where your church is in its finances. No vigor, no gumption, just sinking down into some sort of snoozing state of inactivity, when the very opposite is needed: active, consistent financial giving.

We can stay in this financial recline for a while longer. As I said, it's not life-and-death quite yet, but, as the Book of Proverbs so colorfully points out: “A little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to rest, and poverty will come upon you like a robber, and want like an armed man.” (Proverbs 24:33-34).

More than a pinch, more than a simple shifting of here to there on the budget sheet, a genuine jump-out-of-your-seat experience of “oh my gosh!” panic is coming. Because we're allowing ourselves budgetary recline when we need to keep on in steady budgetary support. That's no way to run a household of the Lord Jesus.

Please assess your giving in recent months. I'm not asking that anyone dip deep into their savings to make up for what's gone lacking in their financial gifts to University Baptist. I'm only asking that, if we're part of the church giving recline, that we rouse ourselves up to meet our parts of the giving responsibility. Invest yourself now; invest your talents in the contemporary meaning of time and skills; and invest your talents in the New Testament meaning of financial resources.

Your Senior Minister in the Interim,
~ Gary
